Pulmonary Function Test

Date of Test: _____ Test Time: _____

How the Test Works

A Pulmonary Function Test (PFT) is a painless way to measure how well your lungs are working. The results of the test may explain:

- Symptoms such as shortness of breath
- The type and severity of the lung problem
- How smoking may have affected your lungs (if you have smoked)
- Whether you are at risk for breathing problems during general anesthesia

Allowing Time

The test usually takes 30 to 60 minutes.

Preparation

- Stop taking all respiratory medications (both inhaled and oral) 24 hours before the test.
Emergency Albuterol can be used up to 6 hours before the test if absolutely necessary. If you are unable to do this, please contact your doctor or the Pulmonary Lab (220) 564-4190.
- You must not take oral steroids or receive steroidal injections within one week of testing.
- Stop smoking 12 hours before the test.
- If you are sick or not at your baseline health, please call Central Scheduling at (220) 564-4722 to reschedule.

Registration

Please report to the Cardiology Procedures/Pulmonary Function Testing Area 15 minutes before your appointment time. It is located on the Licking Memorial Hospital (LMH) Second Floor, across from the visitor elevators.

During a PFT

During a PFT, you will inhale and exhale in different ways through a disposable filtered mouthpiece. This mouthpiece will be attached to an instrument that measures three aspects of lung function:

- The force and amount of air leaving your lungs (spirometry)
- How well your lungs move oxygen into your blood (diffusion)
- The total amount of air in your lungs, not just the part you exhale (lung volume)

You may have all 3 parts done or just portions of the tests. Sometimes, an inhaler is given during the test. Then the spirometry part of the test is repeated 10 minutes later.
